

Publication : sulekha.com

Region : New Delhi

Date : Dec 09, 2010

The screenshot shows a news article on the Sulekha.com website. The article is titled "Globalising India needs 'schools of tomorrow': Harvard education professor" and is dated December 9, 2010. The author is Arjati Chha. The article discusses the challenges of globalisation in India and the need for a new educational system. It quotes Harvard Graduate School of Education professor David Perkins, who believes that 'schools of tomorrow' should move towards teaching knowledge that matters. Perkins says that education in India needs to move away from rote learning and embrace an application-based approach through 'schools of tomorrow'. He also mentions that the Indian education system, based on the British system, is one of the largest in the world. The article includes several paragraphs of text and a sidebar with various advertisements and a navigation menu.

Globalising India needs 'schools of tomorrow': Harvard education professor posted 1 hour ago - by sulekha news | 29 Views | View Source: Arjati Chha

Education Course
Wide Range of Courses Offered 100% Free, Try It Now!
www.education.in

New Business Opportunity
Low Investment, Healthy Returns Become a School Partner www.schools.in

Philosophy of Education
Access full-text academic books and journals. Online research - Download.
www.sulekha.com/technology_21_10

Breaking News Other News Hot

Indi
Ma
Ma
Mo
to Sav
Cie
Tall
Hig Got Str
Kin
X's
Tan
Ast
Sto Hig
Am
Gro
Hoq
Toy
to Est
Rar
Ear
Plan in Indi
DM will Act
Ags
Raj
if Fou

GA Kar
Ovs
200
Flm
to Foa
in [Arjati Chha can be contacted at arjati@xseed.in]