Teach your children to accept failure in life, so that they can achieve success. Clinical Psychologist, Dr. Savita Datta Menon, Go beyond the traditional 'Progress Report' route and give a 'Strength Report' for the child. Ashish Rajpal

Hyderabad, February 12... Nature sends new born baby with two behaviours. One is sleeping and the other one is crying. He sleeps for 16 hours a day. These are the only two behaviours the new born knows. Read the article. He spends one third of his day in school, another one third of time and balance are third sleeping. So who are responsible for child behaviour. That it is parents and school teachers. Anything child learns in the initial phase of life is from parents and teachers. What are you teaching. It is the parents and teachers who can mould the life the way better results they set behavioral objectives. He writes informed Dr. Savita Datta Menon, Senior Vice President, Clinical Psychologist and a Wellness Specialist while addressing "Child of Tomorrow", a Parenting Workshop here in Yogi Bhai Children Park on Sunday morning. The workshop for parents was organized by iDiscover to realize the potential of their child. iDiscover is the innovative education enterprise focused on learning and leadership. It was the first of its kind XSEED workshop. It was designed to help a parent understand and identify the child's true potential the workshop.

Addressing the pathfinding of well over 300 parents and their children in the age group of 4-11 years, Dr. Savita said, children come into this world without baggage. Their life depends on how we shape up. Their future lies in your hands she told the parents. Whether he becomes negative or positive it is in your hands. If you have not taught your child to accept failure, he will not be able to handle failure. Failure are stepping stones for success. Failure can be friend of your child. He/she is successful without failure. Teach your child to live with the failure and rejection. They are part of the life. Don't necessarily worry about your child's weakness. Be positive. Nurture him of his strengths. Realize him of his potential. Push your child towards success, she said. She answered questions of many parents on the parenting.

Speaking on the occasion Ashish Rajpal, Founder & Managing Director, iDiscover Education said Child of Tomorrow will highlight how good parenting can help shape the child's future in today's competitive times. Ashish shared his experience in child development and highlighted the role of parents in context of education and learning.

Child of Tomorrow was a unique workshop that has been designed to give the parent first hand account of the child's strengths and weaknesses. The workshop aimed to go beyond the traditional 'Progress Report' route and give a 'Strength Report' for the child that will enable the parent to understand the child better so that future could be realized accordingly. The workshop involved a series of activities that have been designed to help one become the ideal parent, and the child to become the ideal student. These activities recognize the fact that all children are special in their own right, and can be taught the learning techniques that suit their way of learning.

iDiscover is working towards bringing cutting-edge research insights to improve the knowledge base of school leaders. The organization has started work on educating parents on their role in school education, and the workshop Child of Tomorrow held is a significant step in that direction. The program ended with questions and answers.
